

How British Values are Interwoven Through our Ethos, School Values and Events

Ethos, Values and Events
Democracy	Rule of Law	Individual Liberty	Mutual Respect	Tolerance
All staff, children, and their family members take part in an Democracy Day in the week of International Democracy Day (September)	Holy Family has clearly defined school rules in the school, which children can understand and are familiar with. Clear positive behaviour policy with graduated response of consequences.	Children are encouraged to follow their own passions and interests. Children’s individual interests and achievements outside of school are celebrated at every school assembly. Pupils are encouraged to know, understand and exercise their rights and personal freedoms. Pupils are given the freedom to make choices, e.g. signing up for extra-curricular clubs. Going hand in hand with this is the understanding that with rights, come responsibilities too, and therefore all rights must be exercised safely and responsibly. Alongside personal safety, online rights and	The value of respect forms part of our six BEST Values and is therefore a significant foundation of our school. Children are taught that respect is a constant and not a value to pick and choose when to use and who give it to.	Diversity is celebrated. Equality and protected characteristics have a clear footprint in our school. Each year, children across the school take part in Disability Awareness Day. Every October, our children take part in Black History Month, across the school. responsibilities are explored each year on Internet Safety Day, which all classes take part in.
